

Dr. Yelena Bird

Dr. Yelena Bird serves as an Associate Professor, School of Public Health, University of Saskatchewan. Her areas of teaching, research interest and expertise are in Health Promotion (Health inequities/ inequalities and disease prevention) and Environmental Health (Tobacco-related research). By engaging in applied, participatory, community-based public health research, she is able to generate new found knowledge, promote knowledge translation and implement interventions that empower our youth, women and minority communities to make informed decisions and take appropriate action that lead to improved health outcomes and a better quality of life.

<https://www.usask.ca/sph/people/faculty-profiles/yelena-bird.php>.