

Dr. Mary Ellis is currently a senior lecturer at the National Institute of Education), Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, where she teaches communication skills for teachers, research skills and IT in the Language classroom. She has an MS in Applied Linguistics and MLS (Master of Information/ Library Science) from Indiana University in Bloomington, Indian and taught at the University of Wisconsin in Milwaukee and Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, USA.

To gain overseas teaching experience- she was a lecturer with IU/ITM/MUCIA (Indiana University/ Institut Teknologi MARA/ Midwest Universiti Consortium for International Activities) Cooperative Program. Shah Alam, Malaysia- a cooperative program between Indiana University and the Malaysian government She later joined ILSAS-TNB, (Institut Latihan Sultan Ahmad Shah/Tenaga Nasional Berhad- National Electricity Company) Bangi, Malaysia) as an English language consultant

She received her doctorate from Nanyang Technological University/ NIE Learning Science Technology Academic Group in the area of information literacy. As a curriculum developer, she has designed courses for universities in Bahrain and Abu Dhabi and delivered courses in Jakarta for the Sampoerna Foundation. She is also a co-developer of an online blended course in communication for teachers at NIE and a mobile application for pronunciation, Well Said, which is based on standard Singapore English pronunciation. Dr. Ellis is also an external IELTS (International English Testing System) examiner for the British Council in Singapore.

Research interests include: Information Literacy, Information-seeking behavior, Task-based models for teaching research process, Digital Literacy, Academic Writing/ Teaching Research Skills. Currently she is involved in research projects on information literacy of pre-service teachers and the correlation between school libraries and reading skills of students.

More information can be found at the following website: <http://www.nie.edu.sg/profile/ellis-mary>