

Ana Kundid Novokmet, assistant professor, Department of Finance, Faculty of Economics, University of Split, Croatia. Lecturing Bank Management, Theory of Financial Intermediation, Banking, Financial Markets, Investment Banking. Publishing research papers in banking regulation, capital requirements, bank financial management, corporate social responsibility of banks, theory of financial intermediation and banking sector stability. Member of Croatian Operational Research Society, Association of Accountants and Financial Employees Split, Eurasia Business and Economics Society and Croatian Economic Association. Doctoral study visit at Karl Franzens Universität Graz, Graz, Austria (funded by the Grant of the Province of Styria in Cooperation with the University of Graz for Students from South-Eastern Europe - GO STYRIA scholarship) and at Ekonomska fakulteta Univerza v Ljubljani, Slovenia (funded by the ERASMUS scholarship). Training mobility at University of National and World Economy, Sofia, Bulgaria (funded by the ERASMUS scholarship) and Institut Supérieur d'Economie & Management at Université Nice Sophia Antipolis, Nice, France (funded by the ERASMUS+ scholarship). Awarded in the category The Best Paper Award from Emerald Publishing Group (International Journal of Law and Management) on Business & Economics Society International Conference, Athens, Greece (15-19 July 2010) for the paper Kundid, A. and Ercegovic, R. "Credit rationing in financial distress: Croatia SMEs finance approach". In 2014 awarded by the Croatian Association of Accountants and Financial Employees for the doctoral thesis in the area of Finance.