

Madhusri Shrivastava

Madhusri Shrivastava is faculty in the area of Communication at Indian institute of Management Indore, one of the premier business schools in India. Her areas of research interest include Communication, Cultural Studies and Sociology, Media Studies and Literature. She has extensive experience in teaching Managerial Communication, Mass Communication, English literature and language at the postgraduate and undergraduate levels. She holds a Ph.D. degree in Cultural Studies from the Department of Communication and Journalism, University of Pune, India. She earned her Master's degree and M.Phil. degree in English literature from the University of Bombay. She has a Diploma in Higher education, also from the University of Bombay.

She is actively involved in writing and editing, and has written extensively for the media as well. She conducts training sessions, workshops, and management development programmes in Leadership communication and Business Communication. She has publications in reputable journals of sociology, cinema and media studies, and has also won the 'Best case' award at an international conference.