

Alka Obadić is a Full Professor in the Department of Macroeconomics and Economic Development at the Faculty of Economics and Business (University of Zagreb).

She has made her BA and MA degrees at the same university as also a degree in the doctoral program EDAMBA (European Doctoral Programmes Association in Management and Business Administration), and acquired a degree of Doctor of Social Sciences, the field of economics. She has professionally and scientifically deepened his knowledge and skills at a number of summer schools and workshops, as well as while being a visiting scholar hosted by University of Ljubljana. On the undergraduate level, she teaches Croatian Economy, Employment Policies and Macroeconomics, on the graduate level Clusters and Competitiveness. At postgraduate study “Economics of the European Union” she teaches Economic growth, convergence of EU members and enlargement. These courses she also teaches in other economic and related faculties in Croatia and as a visiting professor at the University of Ljubljana. She made many fellowships in Austria, India, Portugal, Slovenia, and Sweden.

She has published independently and as a co-author two scientific books and two university textbooks in the area of macroeconomics, labour market, industrial organization and labour relations and more than 50 articles in domestic and international (ISI-indexed) scientific journals (e.g. Actual Problems of Economics, Amfiteatru Economic, Economic Research, Engineering Economics, TEDE etc.); and more than 10 book chapters. She presented her scientific papers at many international conferences (in Austria, Czech Republic, Greece, Netherlands, Poland, Russia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Turkey) and collaborates in many national and international scientific projects. Its area of specialization and interests are primarily structural changes in the labour market, economics of education, employment policies, clusters and the EU accession process. She is a member of the editorial boards of several international journals and a member of the Assembly of the Society of University Teachers, Scholars and other Scientists in Zagreb and Croatian Economic Society. Moreover, she has been a member of several domestic/international projects, and an external reviewer of projects/programmes of the Croatian Ministry of science, education and sports.