

Nicholas Patricios holds a PhD degree and degrees in architecture and town and regional planning. He is a Professor of Architecture in and has held the position of Interim Dean of the School of Architecture at the University of Miami. He is the author of three books including "Kefallinia and Ithaki: A Historical and Architectural Odyssey" and the author of over fifty articles in international and national journals. He is the recipient of many professional and academic awards and has been a Fulbright Fellow, the co-leader of an Earthwatch expedition, and a Visiting Scholar at the American Academy in Rome. Among the funded research grants he has been awarded two were from the Research Council of the University of Miami to undertake archival research in the Ionian Islands, Venice, and London on the traditional architecture of the Ionian Islands in Greece. He also practices as an urban design and planning consultant.