

Dr. Susan Albring is a full professor in accounting at the Whitman School of Management in the Lubin School of Accounting at Syracuse University, where she has been a faculty member since 2008. She is an Associate Editor for Advances in Accounting and is the Incoming Co Editor-in-Chief beginning January 2025. She taught Financial Accounting in the Executive MBA and MBA programs at University of South Florida from 2004 to 2008. She teaches courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels including Taxes & Business Strategy and Introduction to Managerial Accounting. She has also taught Individual Income Taxation, Introduction to Financial Accounting, Advanced Financial Accounting, and a PhD seminar on taxation and firm capital structure. Dr. Albring's areas of specialization include international taxation, disclosure, and firm capital structure decisions. She has published in top-tier journals including Management Science, Journal of Accounting and Public Policy, Journal of American Taxation Association, Journal of Accounting, Auditing, and Finance, The Journal of Corporate Finance, Advances in Accounting, and Issues in Accounting Education. Dr. Albring has won several awards for her research and teaching and has received research grants. Dr. Albring earned a PhD in Accounting from the University of Arizona, a Master's degree in Accounting from Syracuse University and an undergraduate degree in Accounting from LeMoyne College. Prior to joining academe, Susan was a tax consultant at PriceWaterhouseCoopers LLP in New York City. In addition to her academic role at Syracuse University, Dr. Albring is a recognized expert in taxation and co-teaches continuing education for Ernst & Young LLP on partnership taxation with an EY partner/senior manager. She is a contributing author for Pearson's Federal Taxation 2025 Individuals textbook. She is a member of the New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.