

Aleksander Aristovnik is an Associate Professor in the Department of Public Sector Economics at the Faculty of Administration as well as in the Department of International Economics at the Faculty of Economics (University of Ljubljana). He has professionally and scientifically deepened his knowledge and skills at a number of summer schools and workshops, as well as while being a visiting scholar hosted by Princeton University and the University of Zagreb. His research interests encompass Public Sector Economics, International Economics and Economics of the EU. He has actively participated in more than 50 international conferences around the world and recently published many professional and scientific articles in various domestic and recognized (ISI-indexed) international journals (e.g. Eastern European Economics, Expert Systems with Applications, Personnel Review, TQMBE etc.). His research publications have been cited 433 times (109 times per ISI and Scopus combined), 9 of his publications have been cited more than 15 times, and 14 have been cited more than 10 times. He is a member of the editorial boards of several international journals and a member of the programme committee of different domestic and international scientific conferences. Moreover, he has been a head (or a member) of several domestic/international projects, and an external reviewer of projects/programmes of the Slovenian Research Agency and the Romanian Executive Agency for Higher Education, Research, Development and Innovation Funding (UEFISCDI). Since 2012, he has been a member of the programme research group at the Faculty of Administration financed by the Slovenian Research Agency.