

Mr. Catalin PLOAE, born 1979, University lecturer at the Faculty of International Business and Economics of Bucharest University of Economic Studies, holds a Ph.D. in International Business from the Bucharest University of Economic Studies, a Post Doc in Economics from the Romanian Academy and an MA in Marketing from the University of Lille, France. His research interests span from the topics of his Post Doc dissertation and Ph.D. thesis (intercultural management) to innovation and sustainable endeavors, with the constant of community involvement, increase of economic, environmental and social sustainability. He has been member in 4 R&D projects with topics ranging from the development of interdisciplinary research in educational system to economic sustainability and the assessment of Romanian agriculture sector. He is member of the Royal Economic Society, World Economics Association, the Romanian Scientific Society of Management and the Society for Romanian Studies. He was involved in 7 national and international projects that were co-financed by the European Union. He was a visiting professor to the University of Auvergne, France. He is the author/co-author of 5 books, 1 book chapter, 2 ISI Thomson peer-reviewed articles, 12 International peer-reviewed articles, 15 articles published in conference proceedings.