

Biography

Dr Anna Chronopoulou joined Westminster Law School at the University of Westminster in January 2019 as a Senior Lecturer in Law. She has taught on a wide range of courses and programmes in both the public and the private sector at national and international level. She has published nationally and internationally and has been successful in attracting external funding on a number of occasions. She is an active research member of the Centre of Law, Social Justice and Popular Culture at Westminster Law School. Her areas of research focus broadly on law and popular culture, more specifically law and film, law in film, cinematic and media representations of lawyers, law and aesthetics, legal education and the relationship of property law with popular culture. Dr Chronopoulou has presented in national and international conferences. She has been actively involved in the research work of ATINER as a panel organiser on Law and Aesthetics: Bodies, Power and Sexuality and as a member of the Editorial Board for the Athens Journal of Law.