

In 2005 she completed undergraduate studies in the Department of Balkan Studies Florina, University of Western Macedonia in Greece. She continued postgraduate studies in Istanbul at the University of Marmara in the Turkish language of Turkish language and literature and graduated in 2011. During the master's degree obtained certificate of competence in Turkish Language in 2008 at the University of Istanbul (Istanbul Universitesi). In 2009-2010 she completed the program of "Pronunciation and Speech of Turkish language" successfully, organized in Istanbul by the Ministry of Education in Turkey.

In 2010, professional experience included the teaching of Turkish as a foreign language at the Sismanogleio of the "General Consulate of Greece" in Istanbul. She has been teaching Turkish at the Language Centre of the University of Cyprus as a special scientist since 2011 and at the Centre for Lifelong Learning, Assessment and Development (KEPEAA) of University of Cyprus, since 2012. She is a Turkish teacher of the Turkish Language learning program for adults (structured according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages).

Her research interests include Design programs and use Audio visual for teaching and learning Turkish language. Development of Teaching material for Turkish language. Pronunciation Teaching, Teaching Turkish as a Foreign Language, Curriculum Development and Evaluation, Creating new programs for new methods about teaching and learning a foreign language.