

Björn Freter – Short Bio

Björn Freter studied Philosophy and Modern German Literature in Kiel and Berlin. In 2014 he received his doctorate with his thesis “On Facticity and Existentiality. Preliminary studies for a phenomenology of normativity”. He is now working as an Independent Scholar in Berlin, Germany. His research fields include African philosophy, post-colonial philosophy, animal ethics, phenomenology of normativity and literary studies. For a comprehensive overview of his research, please see <https://independent.academia.edu/BjörnFreter>, <https://www.linkedin.com/in/bjoernfreter/>, or https://www.researchgate.net/profile/Bjoern_Freter