

Elina Gugliuzzo is Associate Professor of Modern History. She teaches Modern History at the University Pegaso in Naples. Since 2008 she has an agreement with the University Sophia Antipolis of Nice (France). She is member of: Società italiana di studi sull'età moderna, European Society of Environmental History, European Association for Urban History, Associazione italiana di storia urbana. She studies Mediterranean History and among her research fields there are, social history, urban history, environmental history, world history. Among her publications: the book Economic and Social Systems in the Early Modern Age Seaports: Malta, Messina, Barcelona, and Ottoman Maritime Policy, The Edwin Mellen Press, U.S.A., 2015; the book La piaga delle locuste. Ambiente e società nel Mediterraneo d'età moderna, Napoli, 2014; the essays: Roman Inquisition and the Social Control in Early Modern Malta, in K. Cassar (ed. by), The Roman Inquisition in Malta and Elsewhere, Malta 2017; Locust Invasions, Climatic Factors and Human Affairs in Modern Age Mediterranean, in Environmental History in the Making, pp. 289-306, Berlin 2016; The Holy Vessel: the 'Vascelluzzo' of Messina during the Early Modern Period, in Ships, Saints and Sealore: Cultural Heritage and Ethnography of the Mediterranean and the Red Sea. pp. 21-29, Archaeopress, Oxford 2014; the article Etre esclave à Malte à l'époque moderne, in Captifs et captivité en Méditerranée à l'époque moderne, in "Cahiers de la Méditerranée", n. 87, 2013; the essay Building A Sense Of Belonging: the Foundation of Valletta in Malta, in M. Delbeke – M. Schraven (eds.), Foundation, Dedication and Consecration in Early Modern Europe, Brill, Leiden 2011.