

Curriculum vitae

Hailin Cong received his PhD from Peking University in 2004. After completing a Postdoctoral Fellowship at University of California, Davis, he joined the Qingdao University in 2009 as a Distinguished Professor and Distinguished Young Scientist of Shandong Province. His current research interests lie in the analytical chemistry and polymer chemistry. He received The Natural Science Award from Ministry of Education of China (2007). He has acted as Member of Editorial Board of Nanoscience & Nanotechnology since 2008, Chair of Editorial Committee of China International Nanoscience and Technology Symposium since 2009, Member of Editorial Board of Integrated Ferroelectrics since 2012, Member of Editorial Board of Journal of Materials Sciences and Applications since 2014, Member of Editorial Board of International Journal of Nanomaterials, Nanotechnology and Nanomedicine since 2015.