

Kozhukhar Galina

Kozhukhar Galina is Associate Professor at the Moscow State University of Psychology and Education, in the Faculty of Social Psychology. She has a PhD degree and a Licence as a counsellor in Gestalt Counselling. Her research interests relate to the role of the interpersonal interactions in the professional development of the students-psychologists. The areas of particular interest/specialization include working with adult psychology-students, training to communicative skills, opposition to manipulations. She has about 150 publications in many leading russian academic journals, as well as in several books and journals across Europe.