

CRISTINA LINCARU is a Senior Researcher in INCSMPS (since 1996) working in the National Institute for Science Research in The Field of Labour and Social Protection, Romania, with a basic education as mechanical engineer, specialized in Fine mechanics, optical and biomedical apparatus (Polytechnic University Bucharest, 1992). Doctor in Management since 9th December 2005 with the thesis Labour market in Romania. Organizing, working and directions to ameliorate its performances, under the coordination of Prof. Univ. Dr. Gheorghe Raboaca (Bucharest University of Economic Studies – ASE). Her scientific career on the long term is aimed to achieving high expertise in the field of quality in employment in the knowledge based society context in transition countries. As specific objectives she intend to study how quality in employment is linked to some distinct domains such as: knowledge management, stimulation of innovation, increasing the long term competitiveness, sustainable development, wage developments, improving bargaining and social dialog, as well as identifying new opportunities to create more and better jobs.