

Biographical note

Dr Lockwood's research expertise lies in the field of employment law, including both collective and individual employment law. Past research on the collective front has included an analysis of legal provisions pertaining to trade union governance and the impact of the law on Collective bargaining and information disclosure. Previous research in the domain of individual employment law has involved an analysis of sexual harassment litigation in Britain; mental health discrimination and workplace stress litigation. The research into sexual harassment in the workplace was supported by a research grant from the Leverhulme Trust.