

MSc Elham Madadi Kandjani

Elham Madadi-Kandjani is an Architect and urban designer and has received her Bachelor of Science degree in Architectural Engineering, in 2004 and has obtained her Master of Science degree in Urban Design in 2007. She is a research assistant, PhD candidate and leading scientific expert at the Institute of Urbanism, Graz University of Technology, Austria, with a wide range of experience in the fields of identity, public spaces, sustainable urban development, innovative regions, urban technologies and cultural heritage in the European and Middle-Eastern context. Elham Madadi-Kandjani is an expert for the Horizon 2020 program with focus on climate change, disaster resilience. She runs the follow up project for a Cultural Laboratory Network from the South-East Europe Project CULTEMA on the academic level. She is involved as consultant for international urban development projects and responsible for project dissemination, communication and scientific conference organisation. Recently the focus of her research activities is centered on Public Spaces, Climate Change and Global warming.