

Cornelius Nevradakis Bio

Born in Athens in 1967. Graduated from the Athens University Medical School in 1995. Postgraduate training in Psychiatry (MRCPsych) at the Universities of Manchester, Oxford, and the Royal Free School of Medicine. Attended an MA course in "Philosophy and Ethics of Mental Health" at the University of Warwick. Courses and training in Psychoanalytic Psychotherapy at The Institute of Psychoanalysis and The Centre for Freudian Analysis and Research in London.

Worked for many years as a Locum Consultant Psychiatrist for the NHS UK and has been practising as an independent Psychodynamic Psychiatrist-Psychotherapist for the last 15 years.

Has presented at International Psychiatric and Psychoanalytic Conferences in the UK, Greece, and Croatia. Has held an Honorary Senior Lectureship in Psychiatry at the University of Sheffield.

Has a special interest in the Psychotherapy of Psychosis and the History of Concepts in Psychiatry and Psychoanalysis.