

DENNIS O. PAMA, MBA

Entrepreneur, Educator, Business Analyst and Nature-enthusiast

SHORT BIOGRAPHY

Dennis Pama is a Professorial Lecturer at Bicol University, Philippines. Much of his professional life, however has been dedicated to marketing oil products, as Senior Marketing and Business Analyst. For more than two decades, he was instrumental in establishing new business ventures at downstream Oil and Gas companies in Dubai, Abu Dhabi and Doha, Qatar. His involvements include strategic planning and implementation, business process management, auditing, and data management.

Currently, he spends his time, sharing knowledge and insights to his students. His return to the Philippines is an opportune time to pursue his interest in nature conservation. He is keen on broadening his knowledge and actively participating on discourses about environmental sustainability, researching on commercial ventures that impact society, and exploring possibilities of building climate resilient communities.

Dennis loves to travel and deeply immerses himself into other cultures. He believes that great experiences during travel rewards an individual with an ability to adapt to a multi-cultural environment. It is through meaningful interactions that he develops a deeper understanding of others.
