

George Pavlou holds a BA in Urban and Regional Planning from Ball State University (USA), an MA in Radio and Television from Ball State University (USA), and a PhD in Communication and Mass Communication from Wayne State University (USA). He has been a faculty member in the School of Humanities and Social Sciences at European University Cyprus, teaching communication and media courses, since 2002. He is presently an Associate Professor at Philips University in Cyprus. From 1993 to 2002 he has served as the Academic Dean at Europa College in Cyprus. Prior to this position he has taught in several universities and colleges in the United States including the University of Texas at Dallas, Tarrant County Junior College at Hurst, Texas, and Wayne State University in Detroit, Michigan. He also taught at the University of La Verne (of California) in Athens, Greece, and the American College of Southeastern Europe, also in Athens Greece. Additionally, he has lectured at several colleges and universities in Europe as a visiting professor. He is a member of the Editorial Board of the Athens Journal of Social Sciences and the Athens Journal of Mass Media and Communication of the Athens Institute for Education and Research (ATINER) in Athens, Greece. He has published several papers on D. W. Griffith. He has also published a book, Suspense and Resolution in the Films of D. W. Griffith, Cambridge Scholars Publishers, UK, 2018 [ISBN (10): 1-5275-1323-8, ISBN (13): 978-1-5275-1323-5].