

Brief CV – Carla Sequeira

PhD in History (Faculty of Arts and Humanities of Porto, 2010) and a Master's degree in Contemporary History (Faculty of Arts and Humanities of Porto, 1999).

She is integrated as a researcher at the CITCEM since its Foundation, in 2007, where she belongs to the Scientific Council. She works in the area of the Humanities with an emphasis on History, Economics and Politics. As part of her post-doctoral project (financed by FCT through a Post-Doctoral Fellowship) she studied the process of implementation / development of republicanism in the Douro Region and the social and political movements that permeated the regional history from the 1880s until Norton de Matos' presidential candidacy in 1949.

Has been integrating the organization of various scientific events, with emphasis on the Oficinas de Investigação CITCEM (CITCEM Research Workshops,) an important space for discussion of research projects of CITCEM researchers and collaborators, organized in thematic conferences, which have been held regularly since 2011.

She has been presenting papers in several scientific meetings. She is also a reviewer of articles in scientific journals and in international publishers, and member of editorial boards of indexed scientific journals. Has been publishing regularly in several prestigious scientific journals, collaborated on several chapters and published books on contemporary history
