YANNIS STIVACHTIS

Yannis Stivachtis is Associate Professor of Political Science and Jean Monnet Chair at Virginia Tech (USA). He is also the Director of the International Studies Program and the University Coordinator of the Diplomacy Lab program. He holds a PhD in Politics & International Relations (Lancaster, UK 1996), an M.A. in International Relations & Strategic Studies (Lancaster 1990), and a B.A. in International Studies (Panteion University 1988). His research and teaching interests are related to International Relations Theory (particularly English School theory), European Studies, and Security Studies. His is currently the editor of the Routledge book series on Critical European Studies and co-editor of the Athens Journal of Mediterranean Studies. His most recent publications include Regional Security in the Middle East: Sectors, Variables and Issues (Bristol: e-International Relations Publishing, 2019; co-editor); World Society in English School Theory, special issue (editor), International Politics, vol. 55(1), 2018; Conflict and Diplomacy in the Middle East: External Actors and Regional Rivalries (Bristol: e-International Relations Publishing, 2018; editor); The State/Society Relationship in Security Analysis: Implications for U.S. Peace/State-building Operations (Carlisle, PA: U.S. Army War College Press, 2015); Revisiting the Idea of the European Union as Empire (London: Routledge, 2015; co-editor); Interrogating Regional International Societies, Questioning the Global International Society, special issue (editor), Global Discourse, 5(3), 2015; Europe after Enlargement (London: Routledge, 2014; co-editor); and Human and State (In)Security in a Globalized World (Dubuque, IA: Kendall Hunt). He has also written several articles and book chapters. He is the recipient of several university and professional awards.