

Christoph Wulf

Christoph Wulf is Professor of Anthropology and Education and a member of the Interdisciplinary Centre for Historical Anthropology and the Graduate School “InterArts” at Freie Universität Berlin. His books have been translated in more than languages. For his research in anthropology and anthropology of education, he received the title “professor honoris causa” from the University of Bucharest. He is Vice-President of the German Commission for UNESCO. Research stays and invited professorships at many universities all over the world. Major research areas: historical and cultural anthropology, educational anthropology, rituals, gestures, emotions, intercultural communication, mimesis, aesthetics. Latest book publications in English at: The University of Chicago Press (2013), Routledge (2009, 2011, 2012, 2014), and Springer (2011, 2014); Christoph Wulf is editor, co-editor and member of the editorial staff of several national and international journals.